

IACBOX Silver Surfer edition

The demographics are clear: older people are developing more of an affinity for the Internet. Mobile devices and online access will provide even more important links with family and communities as soon as people's mobility is limited or they move to an assisted living facility or nursing home. Digital participation is becoming a fundamental right, with legal status: in North Rhine-Westphalia, according to section 5(3) of the Residential and Participation Act, all senior residential and care facilities have been obliged since October 1st, 2019 to offer the "technical prerequisites for the use of Internet access".

The IACBOX Silver Surfer edition makes this very easy, as well as very convenient. Residents can access the Internet via secure, barrier-free and legally compliant WiFi. A separate surf LAN means that residents' sensitive data remains completely protected, while access remains secure and reserved for authorised individuals. The available bandwidth is adjustable: separate access can be set up for visitors if preferred, as well as for staff using private devices or devices owned by the company. Options for restricting and blocking certain services are also available, as is protection against unwanted content. Building areas such as residential wings, lobbies and lounges can be provided with separate login pages and/or different login methods via VLAN or SSID.

The screenshot shows the IACBOX Internet Access Control login interface. At the top, the IACBOX logo and 'Internet Access Control' text are displayed. Below this, the title 'Internet access' is shown. A dark grey bar contains a person icon and the text 'For residents'. The main section is titled 'For residents' and contains a 'Username' field, a 'Password' field, and two links: 'View Terms of Use' and 'View Privacy Policy'. A large, rounded 'Logon' button is positioned below the password field. At the bottom, a dark grey bar contains a Wi-Fi icon and the text 'For visitors'. Below this is a language selection dropdown menu currently set to 'English'. The footer of the page includes the text '© 2019 Legal Notice'.
